JIM LEIGHTON

'Why it had to be United'

Jim Leighton arrives at Old Trafford.

JIM FIXES IT!

THE sight of Terry Gibson dancing round Wembley with an FA Cup winners' medal has reinforced cast-off 'keeper Chris Turner's view that there is life after Manchester United.

The former Sunderland hero has been living in fear of the axe almost since the day manager Alex Ferguson arrived at Old Trafford, with the United boss subsequently linked with a whole host of top goalkeeping stars.

Alex finally landed his man when he completed the £750,000 deal that took Jim Leighton to Manchester and Chris confesses he's relieved his agony is finally over.

"Jim's arrival makes it 100 per cent certain I'll be leaving instead of just 90 per cent which was the case before United signed anybody," says Chris.

"I wanted to leave last summer but the club couldn't find a

JIM LEIGHTON didn't even have to speak to his old boss Alex Ferguson to know Old Trafford was the place for him.

Almost as soon as the Aberdeen and Scotland number one knew the 'Dons' had accepted United's offer, Jim was on his way to Manchester.

"I'd set my heart on joining United and even discussed a move there with my wife, so as soon as Ian Porterfield told me the clubs had agreed a fee I knew where I was going," he says.

"I didn't even need the chance to replacement so I had to stay.

"Then I went on tour with the reserves to Devon along with Terry Gibson and we were both so depressed, although I think he was even lower than me.

"So it was great to see him at Wembley with Wimbledon and I know there's a lot of football left in me so, who knows, perhaps I could be at Wembley in a year's time!"

It was Chris's performances on the way to Wembley - in Sunderland's 1985 Milk Cup run

- that secured a £300,000 move to United but he admits he would have been prepared to drop into the Third Division with the Roker Park outfit to resurrect his career.

"Sunderland came in for me last season and I would have loved to have gone back there but they couldn't come up with the cash so I stayed at United," says the 29-year-old 'keeper.

"But, in retrospect, I think that and the fact I couldn't get away last summer might have improved my chances of getting another club.

"At the end of last season I was playing in the reserves but, when Gary Walsh got injured, I got back into the team and ended up having a long run in a side that finished second in the First Division.

"It was a bit different to being third in line behind Gary Bailey and Gary Walsh.

"United have had to spend £750,000 to buy one of the top three 'keepers in the country to replace me. I now just want the chance to prove my ability in the First Division."

HOWARD WHEATCROFT discovers why the arrival of big-money capture Jim Leighton at Old Trafford was the best news resident 'keeper Chris Turner had heard all year ... EXCLUSIVE!

IT HAD TO BE UNITED

chat with Alex. The fact that United wanted me was enough to make up my mind."

Speculation has been rife for almost a year that Jim would be on his way from Pittodrie, thus severing an 11-year connection with the Premier Division outfit.

He continues: "Because my contract was up this summer, I've been linked with clubs all over the place, particularly France and Germany.

"But I didn't actually tell Aberdeen I was leaving until a month ago and even then asked them to keep it quiet until the end of the season.

"I don't think the rumours bothered me personally, although my wife and kids found it very unsettling and the older children found themselves getting grilled at school as to where I was going.

"I'd definitely made up my mind to move, however, and feel I've done all I can in Scottish football. I've got a complete set of domestic medals and also enjoyed European success.

"I need a change - a breath of fresh air if you like - and believe the move can only take my career a stage further."

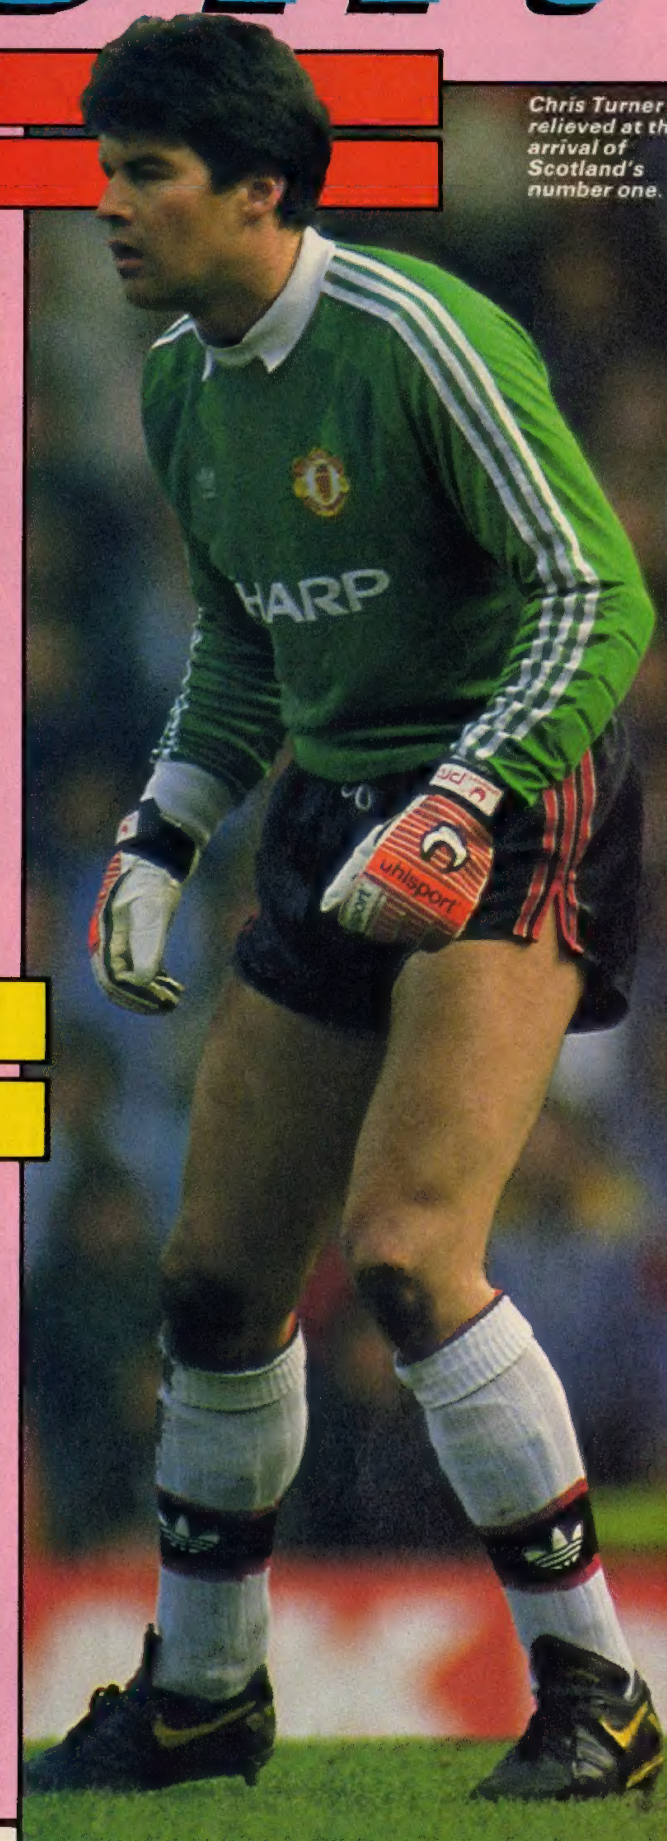

At one point United boss Alex Ferguson seemed to have lost patience after a long wait for Jim and the First Division runners-up were linked with Rangers and England star Chris Woods.

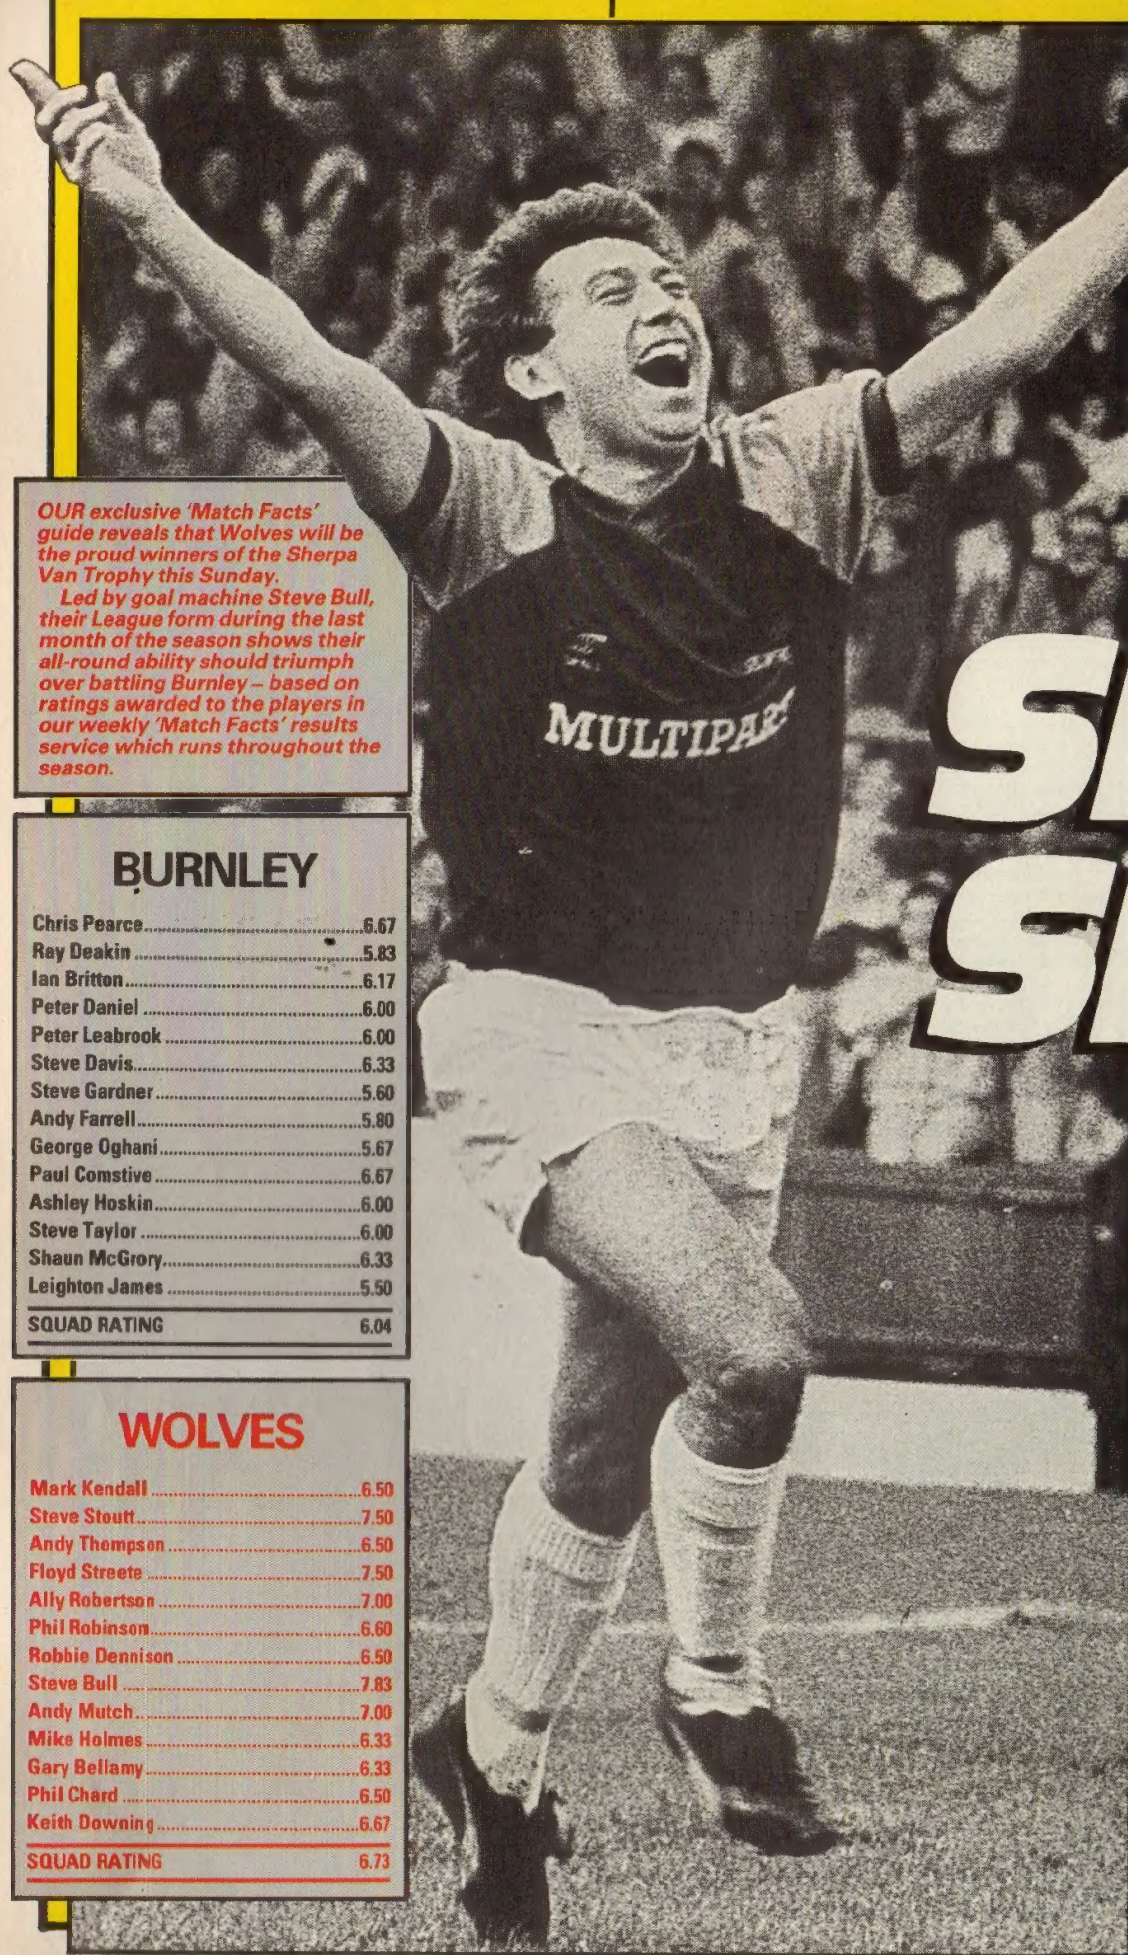

But that proved to be a mere feint and Ferguson finally captured another major figure in his Old Trafford overhaul, at the same time strengthening healthy connections between the two clubs that in previous years has seen Martin Buchan and Gordon Strachan take the road South to fame and fortune - as well as the manager himself.

Even before he arrived at the ground, Jim was only too conscious of the one burning desire of everybody at United, as he explains: "I've spoken to both Gordon and Brian McClair and know from them just how desperate United are to win the League.

"I'm also very aware of just how ambitious Alex Ferguson is, having worked with him for so long."

Chris Turner - relieved at the arrival of Scotland's number one.

LEFT: Neil Grewcock celebrates scoring the goal against Orient which kept Burnley in the Fourth Division last season. Now Wembley is the reward.

PETER DANIEL has clawed his way back from the depths of despair to the verge of Wembley glory in a footballing tale with more twists than Spaghetti Junction!

This time last year, he was in tears when, as caretaker boss of Lincoln City, he plunged into the non-League in what he readily admits was the worst experience of his life.

Defeat at Swansea had sent the 'Imps' crashing out of the League while, ironically, Burnley had avoided the trapdoor by beating Orient at an emotion-charged Turf Moor.

Now the 33-year-old utility man faces the prospect of Wembley for the third time in his distinguished career as a Burnley player lining up against Wolves – the club with whom he won a League Cup winners' medal in 1980!

"The whole situation is so ironic," says Peter. "Last year I suffered a terrible experience and I never in all my wildest dreams imagined I would be playing for Burnley in a cup final at Wembley one year later – especially against my old club."

Burnley only stayed in the League by beating Orient on the day we lost to Swansea but that experience has stood them in good stead this season.

"It was a traumatic time for the players and supporters but manager Brian Miller has done a great job and the players he's brought to the club have responded to the challenge."

It was while Peter was searching out new players to re-build Lincoln's future that his own future took its latest twist.

He explains: "I rang Burnley boss Brian Miller to find out if he had any players available which I could sign for Lincoln when he asked me what my own situation was."

"I told him I was being interviewed for the manager's job at Lincoln but he asked me to contact him if things didn't work out. Colin

SHERPA SHOOT-OUT!

Murphy got the Lincoln post and so I took him up on his offer."

Now Peter is looking forward to a hat-trick of Wembley appearances – he also played for Sunderland in the 1983 Milk Cup defeat at the hands of Norwich – against the club where he made his First Division name.

"It is so ironic that we are playing Wolves in the Final," he says. "Although all the players that were at the club when I was there have left, I still love the place."

"They've done really well this season and I think Graham Turner has done a great job. They were unlucky not to go up last season but I think that has worked in their favour and they've become stronger and better for keeping together."

And Peter is well aware that to become a Wembley winner again, the Turf Moor outfit need to stop goal machine Steve Bull.

He says: "The lad is a good player and to get 52 goals in all competitions in one season is a great achievement."

Of the competition itself, Peter says: "People knock the Sherpa Van Trophy but for players in the Third and Fourth Divisions it represents their only chance of getting to Wembley."

"I thought my chances of playing there again had gone, especially as I admit I'm now in the twilight of my career."

DORIGO'S DREAM!

ENGLAND CALL FOR TONY ...

AS Liverpool's Craig Johnston prepares to pack his bags and return to Australia, England's latest Aussie recruit has spoken about his own battle against homesickness and how it almost forced him to quit the game too!

Ironically, Tony Dorigo's road to stardom is an almost identical one to that of the Anfield hero. Like Craig, Tony left his homeland as a teenager, paid his own air fare to England and staked everything on becoming a First Division soccer star.

And in a season when Craig also burst into the England squad, the Melbourne-born defender now finds himself a surprise eleventh-hour choice for his adopted country after battling to keep his West London club, Chelsea, in the top flight.

But his rise to the top hasn't been easy as former Villa left-back Tony explains: "I came over to England when I was 15 and Villa gave me a chance as an apprentice but, at the time, it was very hard for me and I was very homesick."

"There was a time when I was at Villa - during the days when I used to clean the boots as an apprentice - that I almost threw it all in because I was missing my family. I'm glad I stuck it out now."

Life was made easier for Tony, who finally beat his longing to go back home, when his parents also decided to move over to England and settle in Birmingham.

That left him free to concentrate on his football and, after graduating to Villa's first team, his teenage gamble looked to have paid off when Chelsea shelled out £475,000 to take him to Stamford Bridge.

Now, after a season which left Chelsea battling for their First Division existence and involved in the nerve-racking drama of the play-offs, he's been drafted into the England squad as understudy to Kenny Sansom following an injury to Forest's Stuart Pearce.

IT may be a season to forget for Chelsea but for Stamford Bridge full-back Tony Dorigo it's been a personal victory ...

Says Tony: "It was a very nice surprise. I didn't expect it at all and, while you always hope you might be called up, I never thought about it too much or built up my hopes."

"Now I've been called up for the squad I'm just hoping to get a game. I'll just keep my fingers crossed that I may even go to Germany."

Uncapped Tony - who left Villa for First Division football - also finds it ironic that he could be in the European Championship squad and in the Second Division while the club he left has bounced back to the top flight at the first attempt under Graham Taylor's management.

"Yes, that would be very ironic," he adds. "But I still believe I made the right decision because Chelsea are a great club."

Tony Dorigo - almost quit the game and went back to Australia.

Craig Johnston - homesick Aussie.

MATCH review of the

THE CUP THAT CHEERS!
Wimbledon skipper Dave
Beasant and manager Bobby
Gould fool with the FA Cup following victory over Liverpool.

SHOWERED in champagne as League Champions for the second time in three years, Liverpool claimed their record 17th title success in a style even they will find hard to ever match.

And while it wasn't until Saturday, April 23 - with Tottenham the visitors to Anfield
- that the 'Reds' were finally crowned Champions, the race was over long before.

A 29-match unbeaten run from the start of the season - equalling the record of the great Leeds team of the early seventies
- virtually put paid to the chances of the other hopefuls and it became just a matter of time before football's mathematicians declared the race over.

But while League glory was undeniably Liverpool's, the much sought-after 'double, double' would elude them.

The Merseyside giants went into the FA Cup Final bidding to become the first team to land the 'double' twice but unlikely opponents Wimbledon - mere mongrels in the face of Liverpool's pedigree - popped up to spoil the party.

And while no-one could deny Bobby Gould's braves their moment of glory - a Lawrie Sanchez goal being enough to take the trophy to Plough Lane for the first time in the 'Dons' history - it was ironic that Liverpool reserved their worst performance of the season until their final and arguably most important game.

In the year of the underdog, little Luton swept away the challenge of hot favourites
Arsenal in the Littlewoods Cup
Final - a Danny Wilson goal sandwiched between a double strike from Brian Stein providing a thrilling game which finally saw the Kenilworth Road side claim their first major cup.

But if there were shocks in both cup competitions, the Second Division promotion race was anything but predictable with unfashionable Millwall carrying off the Championship.
It left Aston Villa - early favourites to lift the title - having to settle for runners-up spot but content in the knowledge that First Division football is returning to Villa Park.

In Division Three, it was North-East giants Sunderland who finally ran out easy winners following their first experience of football in the League's lower reaches and former top flight side Wolves began the long haul back by clinching the Division
Four Championship.

And of course we must not let the moment pass without mention of Colin Murphy's Lincoln who bounced back against all the odds to land the Vauxhall Conference.

David Currie - star performer.

STEAMING CURRIE

BARNSELY'S David Currie is too hot to handle... and that's official.

The former Darlington hot-shot was the season's star performer as our exclusive 'Match Facts' table shows.

And to prove his superiority this term, David ended up star man at both Darlington and his new club Barnsley.

In total he finished pick of the pack in 27 games during the season with Grimsby's Don O'Riordan his nearest challenger on 19 star ratings.

The First Division's star man was Manchester United's revitalised midfielder Gordon Strachan.

Gordon, who also won our 'Matchman of the Month' award for April, deserves to win a new contract from United boss Alex Ferguson after his near-superhuman efforts helped the Old Trafford club finish the season just nine points behind Champions Liverpool.

SCOTCHED!

LEIGHTON SAVES SCOTLAND'S BLUSHES

NEW Manchester United 'keeper Jim Leighton was Scotland's hero at Wembley on Saturday as Peter Beardsley and his England team-mates threatened to run up a cricket score. Leighton made a series of world class saves – succumbing only to a piece of real brilliance by the bewitching Beardsley that 'scotched' the hopes of the tartan hordes that had flocked to Wembley.

Any commainers!

Dear Emlyn

FORMER Liverpool skipper Emlyn Hughes – who tasted both victory and defeat in FA Cup Finals – looks back through your letters to the day his beloved 'Reds' saw their dreams of an incredible 'double, double' shattered.

If you have a question for the former England star, the address to write to is 'Dear Emlyn', MATCH, Stirling House, Bratton, Peterborough PE3 8DJ. Don't forget to include your chest and boot size in case you are among our lucky winners, who this week are Derek Harrison of Nottingham (Taurus leather football), and Caroline Walker of Great Yarmouth (Hi-Tec sweat top).

DEAR EMLYN

THE underdogs have done it again! Wimbledon's fantastic victory at Wembley made them the third team this season to win a Final – after Reading and Luton – when they were least expected to. They fully deserved to win but have you any idea why the favourites keep missing out? Derek Harrison, Nottingham.

● NO idea at all, Derek. I agree with you that the 'Dons' were worthy winners. Liverpool didn't perform – or weren't allowed to – and Wimbledon stole a goal. It wasn't a classic Final by any means but there was only ever going to be one team in it.

DEAR EMLYN

I WAS appalled by referee Brian Hill's display at Wembley. He disallowed a goal that quite clearly should have stood and then gave a penalty that quite obviously wasn't. His performance ruined what should have been a great occasion. Caroline Walker, Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

● TO say Brian Hill had a poor game by his standards would be an understatement. He was quite clearly wrong to blow up when he did for Andy Thorn's attempted foul on Peter Beardsley. He should have allowed play to continue until Peter either scored or missed and then had a quiet word with the defender concerned. But by giving Liverpool a penalty he only succeeded in getting himself in bigger trouble. Clive Goodyear's tackle on John Aldridge was never in a million years a penalty.

■ MORE MATCH READERS AIR THEIR VIEWS IN MICK'S MAILBAG – SEE PAGE 30.

John Aldridge – penalty that never was.

DEAR EMLYN

WHY isn't Dave Beasant in Bobby Robson's England squad? He was brilliant in the FA Cup Final – and I'm a Liverpool fan! I don't think the 'Dons' deserved to win the Cup, but Beasant certainly did. Rachel Buxton, Chaddesden, Derby.

● DAVE should certainly be in the England squad and I rate him as probably the third best in the country behind Chris Woods and Peter Shilton. He commands his area, is very good on crosses and is certainly worth a place in one of Bobby's squads.

DEAR EMLYN

WELL, you and all the other 'experts' got it wrong in predicting that Liverpool would thrash the 'Wombles' of Wimbledon. There was only one team in it and they certainly weren't wearing red shirts. Carol Fryer, Ewell, Surrey.

● COULDN'T agree with you more, Carol. Wimbledon played to their strengths and Liverpool didn't. They passed for the sake of it and never really looked like carving up Wimbledon's defence. But don't worry, Liverpool will come back.

FOUR of Wimbledon's FA Cup-winning heroes could be on their way out of Plough Lane.

The club have announced that DAVE BEASANT, DENNIS WISE, JOHN FASHANU, and ANDY THORN could all be allowed to leave, if any big clubs make offers.

Managing director Sam Hammam revealed: "If Manchester United, Barcelona or any other big-name club come in for my players the club will not stand in their way. If any player got the opportunity to go to a bigger club, we would lose all credibility if we stood in their way."

Beasant, who made history by becoming the first goalkeeper to skipper a side to an FA Cup victory, has been on Arsenal's wanted list since last season while Fashanu has also been linked with the Highbury club – as well as Everton and West Ham.

England Under-21 defender Thorn and Wise are both regarded as youngsters who have bright futures in the game so they could be snapped up by the bigger clubs in the next few months.

Hot Gossip

Reporter Ray Ryan's weekly round-up of all the big transfers... and the latest rumours!

Meanwhile Wimbledon's FA Cup opponents Liverpool are attempting to keep CRAIG JOHNSTON at Anfield. Johnston revealed that he wanted to quit the British game and return to Australia but Kenny Dalglish is desperately trying to make him reverse his decision.

Manchester United manager Alex Ferguson might also be forced to plead with one of his stars to stay at the club. That's because England skipper BRYAN ROBSON was the subject of a 'name your price' bid from French club Strasbourg. The offer comes just weeks after Ferguson splashed out £750,000 to buy JIM LEIGHTON from Aberdeen. If Ferguson does release Robson, then he could use the money received in his attempt at bringing PAUL GASCOIGNE and GARY PALLISTER to the club.

However, Old Trafford holds no more fascination for ARTHUR ALBISTON. The experienced defender has not figured in Ferguson's long-term plans and he looks set to leave before the start of next season. Albiston is wanted by both Oxford and newly-promoted Millwall but, as he wishes to stay in the North West, he could send out an SOS message to Mel Machin to bring him to Manchester City.

Other First Division news has seen STEVE OGRIZOVIC ask for a transfer from Coventry while Derby's ROSS MACLAREN has turned down a new contract because he wants guaranteed first team football next season. Luton will also release veteran BRIAN STEIN on a free transfer. The Littlewoods Cup hero may link up with former boss David Pleat and join Leicester.

Finally into the Second Division where Stoke manager Mick Mills could be about to form his own version of the old pals' act. Mills has lined up three former Ipswich teammates in an effort to bring Stoke into Division One. On his wanted list are ERIC GATES, PAUL MARINER and ALAN BRAZIL.

Countdown to

Germany

AFTER several years during which they earned a reputation as one of the most skilful and entertaining teams in the world, the Soviet Union's ageing squad is now presented with a last chance of international glory.

Having appeared in four previous final stages, they will lack nothing in experience of the pressures and tensions of the tournament and could turn out to be the most dangerous outsiders.

Glasgow Rangers may have done them a favour when they knocked Dynamo Kiev out of the European Cup in the second round last season. Their elimination meant the Kiev players, who form the backbone of the USSR's national team, Championship tournament in 1960, reached the Final in 1964 and 1972 and the Semi-Finals in 1968.

And while they failed to impress during this tournament's qualifying stages in which their excellent home record enabled them to overwhelm East Germany and France to top Group Three, they have shown signs of recapturing their best form during the second half of the season.

At their best the Russians are a brilliant side capable of thrilling improvisational play. Any of their individuals would not look out of place in any other international side with Igor Belanov and Oleg Protasov likely to emerge again as their stars.

Both have suffered from injuries in the last year but have fought back to recover their best form and should enjoy the stimulation of playing in what promises to be one of the most evenly contested international tournaments for years.

The USSR's 'Red Army'.

The team will almost certainly include Rinat Dasaev in goal – a man still regarded by some as the best 'keeper in the world – but one name that will be missing from the great Soviet team of recent years – who can forget their 6-0 thrashing of Hungary during the 1986 World Cup Finals? – will be veteran winger Oleg Blokhin who has finally retired from international football after a decade at the top.

The men he has left behind will, however, do all they can to spoil the chances of both England and Eire in the opening group section as the USSR bid to reach the Semi-Finals for the fifth time in the history of the tournament.

MATCH

Countdown to

BEWARE BELANOV

THE Soviet Union's veteran team will rely for goals on the pace and finesse of striker Igor Belanov.

The Dynamo Kiev star, a former 'European Footballer of the Year', has been one of the leading stars in Russian football for the last five years. And the European Championship Finals will offer him his final chance of proving he is a world-class player and winning his first major medal in the international game.

Twenty-seven-year-old Belanov has been a driving force in Dynamo Kiev's European campaign of recent seasons and his familiarity with the skills and the individual styles of the many Kiev men around him in the Soviet team always help to make him a major threat.

He is quick, skilful, nimble and deadly in front of goal and a modern striker in the European trend.

Like many of his Russian team-mates, however, Belanov has shown signs of fatigue in recent seasons after playing all the year round for Kiev and the Russian team.

Belanov caught the eye of many observers during the 1986 World Cup Finals and he has scored four goals to emerge as their most dangerous striker during the qualifying stages en route to the West Germany Finals.

TOUTS TRACKED

YOU can only applaud the Football Association's clampdown on the ticket touts. Liverpool trading standards officers were at Wembley for the FA Cup Final and spoke to around 500 fans who bought tickets at inflated prices in a bid to gain evidence as to where those tickets came from.

By tracing back it's hoped to pinpoint exactly who the tickets originally belonged to and, if found guilty of black marketing, curtail or limit the number they receive in future. Anything that puts more FA Cup Final tickets in the hands of REAL fans can only be a good thing.

CUEING UP TO LOSE!

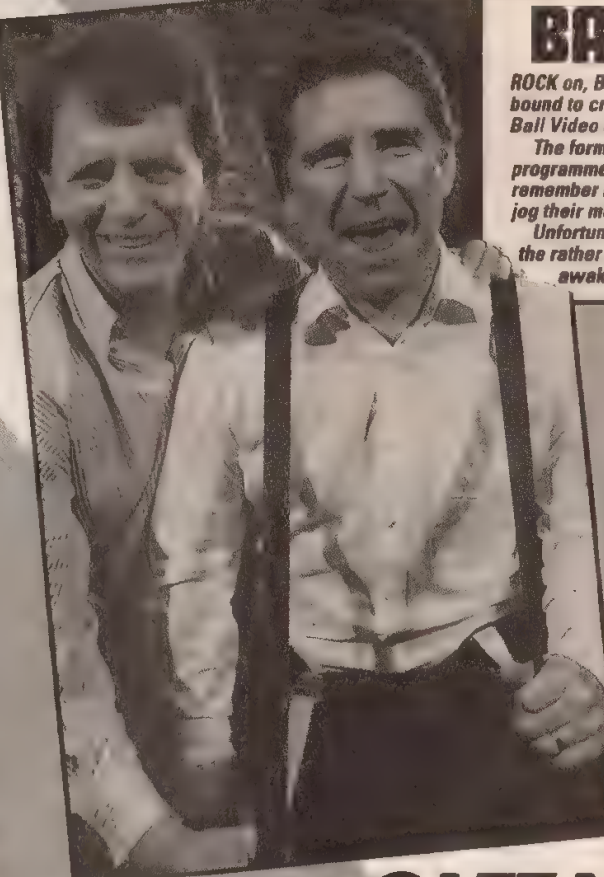

SNOOKER ace Steve Davis didn't do much to help Portsmouth's players forget their relegation blues when he sent six 'Pompey' stars packing in a special challenge match in aid of goalkeeper Alan Knight's testimonial.

Despite giving each opponent a 21-point start, only Kevin Dillon came close to victory - finally bowing out 87 points to 94 in a black ball game.

Rest of the scores were: Andy Gosney (lost 83-97); Kevin Ball (lost 58-75); Clive Whitehead (lost 35-101); Billy Gilbert (lost 30-69); Mick Quinn (lost 26-127) and boss Alan Ball (lost 53-78).

The real winner, however, was Alan Knight who collected £5,000 on the night.

COVENTRY striker David Speedie will be among the enthusiastic amateurs taking part in the star-studded Dunhill British Masters Pro-Am at Woburn Golf and Country Club on Tuesday.

WITHE IN THE WARS

OLD warhorse Peter Withe may have fought his last battle. The much-travelled 36-year-old, having just returned after suffering thrombosis in a leg, may now be forced to quit the game after breaking his cheekbone in Sheffield United's play-off defeat at Bristol City.

Watch out!

SOME of the top strikers taking part in this summer's European Championship Finals could have a bit of bother getting through customs on the way home.

Seiko, official timekeepers to the Championship, will award a watch to the player who scores the first goal in every match.

And that means someone like Roud Gullitt could finish up with five up his sleeve!

BALL ON THE BOX

ROCK on, Ballie! No, that isn't a misprint but a phrase that's bound to crop up in a new television series 'The Channon and Ball Video Show'.

The former England duo have teamed up for a series of programmes that will take a nostalgic look at the game as they remember it, with plenty of material from the archives to help jog their memories.

Unfortunately the show will only be screened on TVS and at the rather unreasonable hour of 12.05am but, if you can stay awake long enough, the effort should be worthwhile.

FINALLY, A CHANGE OF TUNE

SOME pretty horrible things were written about Wimbledon on the morning of the Cup Final, not least the suggestion that because of the way they play it would be a "tragedy for football if they won."

Yet those same people who knocked Bobby Gould's men on the eve of what was surely going to be a magnificent victory for Liverpool - for the good of football - suddenly changed their tune when they were made to eat their words.

No longer was it a tragedy but instead a deserved win. Funny old game...

GAZZA SPLASHES OUT

PAUL GASCOIGNE put his foot in it when he kicked over a bucket of water after being sent off in a match against Derby. It cost him a £200 fine from the Football Association who judged 'Gazza' brought the game into disrepute with his actions.

He can think himself lucky not to have been banned for life for such a terrible crime!

FLYING DOCTOR VISITS

PAUL WEBB, a 27-year-old cancer research doctor, paid £350 to fly 6,000 miles from his home in San Francisco to cheer Lincoln City on in their bid to regain their League status.

Said Paul after watching the victory which clinched the Vauxhall Conference title: "I had to shop around for a cheap flight because I couldn't really afford it but now I know it's all been worthwhile!"

Boss eyed

KENNY DALGLISH being named Bell's 'Manager of the Year' was hardly a surprise but was he the worthy winner? Was it a greater feat for Liverpool with all their stars, money and support to win the League or Wimbledon with their 'six-a-penny' players, shoestring budget and average gates of around 7,000 to win the FA Cup?

QUOTE OF

ALAN CORK - on being told he would have to pay £8 for two drinks at Wimbledon's hotel before the Final - said: "Eight quid for two drinks? I'd need a testimonial to buy a round!"

THE WEEK

TWO-GOAL RETURN OF THE EXILE

IAN RUSH gave Anfield a glimpse of what they've been missing when he scored in Alan Hansen's testimonial match against an England XI.

But any chances of the man coming home were dashed by 'Rushy' himself, who stressed there is still two years of his Juventus contract to run and there is no escape clause.

Any chance of him leaving Italy was made even less likely when his 'foreign' partner Michael Laudrup was transfer-listed

MCKNIGHT MAY MOVE

IT WAS A SCOTTISH SCENE when the Dundee United manager, Willie Miller, announced that he had signed a new player. The 21-year-old Dundee United attacker, Kevin Gallacher, had been named 'Mr. Superfit' man-of-the-match award at the Scottish Cup Final - but his call-up into the Scotland squad certainly gave the 21-year-old Dundee United attacker a much-needed lift.

Pain-killer!

He was shattered by Frank McAvennie's late double for Celtic which overturned his superb opening strike and he could barely raise a smile when presented with the Cup Final sponsors' award.

But Andy Roxburgh's decision to pull him into the national squad for the Rous Cup games against Colombia and England did much to redress the balance and restore the spring to the player's step.

"I was sick after the Cup Final and I didn't want to even think about the game," he admits.

"Once again we had nothing to show for all our efforts and, when things like that happen so often, you begin to wonder if football is worth all the heartbreak.

"Then, out of the blue, I was pulled in to the Scottish squad and suddenly I found myself getting over my disappointment.

ANDY EASES

KEVIN'S AGONY

"And when I was named in the starting line-up for the match against Colombia, it gave me a tremendous boost and regenerated all my enthusiasm for the game.

"International football is the aim of every self-respecting professional and in the short time I have been part of the national squad I have learned from the experience.

"I am also perfectly aware of how quickly things can change in football. Just when I thought nothing was going right, things started to turn for me and now, instead of spending the Summer mulling over our Cup Final defeat, I have put the disappointment behind me and I'm looking forward to the new season."

■ PAUL McSTAY completed his own personal double to add to Celtic's League and Cup glory when he was voted 'Player of the Year' by the Scottish PFA, two weeks after picking up the 'Football Writers' award.

■ MOTHERWELL and Huddersfield are both showing interest in Eire international Pierce O'Leary who has been released by Celtic.

NO HOT SEAT FOR MILLER

ABERDEEN are set to make the sort of offer which will keep Willie Miller at Pittodrie for the rest of his playing days but the 33-year-old defender is unlikely to be offered the vacant manager's chair.

Falling hard on the heels of the shock resignation of Ian Porterfield, Miller's name topped many lists of likely successors but, having declared himself good for another three years as a player and seeing the problems encountered by Graeme Souness who has tried to combine both jobs, he is almost certain to settle for continuing as skipper.

The Aberdeen board have advertised the vacancy and among those being mentioned are Rangers assistant boss Walter Smith, ex-Ibrox boss Jock Wallace and Motherwell's Tommy McLean.

But hot favourite for the job must be former St. Mirren boss Alex Smith, who only recently joined the Pittodrie coaching staff.

Smith is very highly regarded throughout football and his brief exit from the soccer scene was always seen as nothing more than a temporary setback.

Meanwhile Ian Porterfield has hit out at suggestions that he is leaving Aberdeen with his tail between his legs.

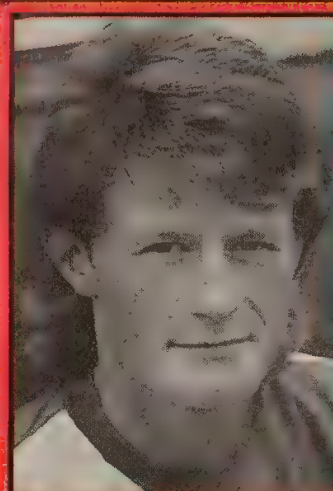

"I'm no quitter," he snaps. "The fans never accepted me in the same way as they did Alex Ferguson but I could live with that."

"However, when my children began to be drawn into the matter, it was time for me to make a stand. My kids were getting a lot of trouble at work and school so, after much thought, I decided to call it a day."

"I believe I did an honest job for the club. After all the success which 'Fergie' had enjoyed, there was always going to be a levelling-off period while everyone adjusted to the change."

"I feel we were well on our way to sorting things out and were on the verge of making one or two signings which could have turned the club around."

BLACKBURN BLUES

Colin Hendry, devastated

DEVASTATED Blackburn defender Colin Hendry faces Second Division football again next season declaring: "I'm heart-broken!"

The 22-year-old defender has been ever-present in a season which saw the Ewood Park outfit chalk up a 22-match unbeaten run and come close to ending their 22-year absence from the top flight.

But a 2-1 home defeat at the hands of Chelsea in the Division One Two play-off turned a season of hope into one of despair.

so well this season by recording an impressive unbeaten run and also topping the Second Division table but the defeat at the hands of Chelsea was a blow which all felt.

"Although we slowed us a bit towards the end of the season, I really thought that we would be promoted."

"It's awful when you get your heart set on something and then it doesn't come off but after losing the first leg 2-0 to Chelsea, we were under a bit of pressure and couldn't really respond."

"We got hammered in the second leg at Stamford Bridge and it's all a bitter pill to swallow."

Colin has been the subject of much transfer speculation this season with rumours that a big First Division club would come in for him. And if those rumours turn out to be true, Colin will get his chance at top flight football.

"I have got two years of my contract left at Blackburn but I am desperate for First Division football and if a big club came in for me then I would hope that Blackburn wouldn't stand in my way," he says.

SUDDEN DEATH

Colin Morris - down and possibly out.

MATCH brings you the inside stories from two of the early play-off games as Blackburn just miss out on promotion... and Sheffield United go down!

BLEAK FUTURE FOR MORRIS

THE future of Colin Morris hangs in the balance as Sheffield United face up to life in the Third Division.

The 35-year-old winger scored in United's 1-1 draw with Bristol City at Bramall Lane but it still wasn't enough to save Dave Bassett's side from relegation as they went down 2-1 on aggregate in a Division Two/Three play-off.

And as Colin explains, the drop means that his future at the club looks bleak.

"I would love to stay but somehow I don't think I will be here next season," Colin reveals. "Everything will be sorted out in the next few days but I've got a feeling that I will not be part of future plans of the club."

And with his future apparently laying elsewhere, Colin has a warning for the 'Blades' side left to battle out of Division Three next season.

"The Third Division is a very hard place to play football and I'm sure the lads will find it difficult," he says.

"I should know because I was involved with the United side that did that four seasons ago and we only got out then because of a slightly better goal difference."

The drop also sees the misery of Dave Bassett completed. The man who brought Wimbledon from the Fourth Division to the top flight now stares at the Third Division again.

Action from Ayresome Park where Bradford lost 2-0 on the night and 3-2 on aggregate to Middlesbrough.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF..

BRADFORD CITY'S

NEWPORT NIGHTMARE

FATAL FACT! Newport's points total of 25 was the lowest of any team in the League!

FATAL FACT! Newport conceded a staggering 105 goals during the season – the worst record of any League team!

FATAL FACT! Newport suffered the most defeats both at home and away of any League team – 14 and 19 respectively!

NEWPORT'S nightmare season has left them fighting for their footballing future and facing life in a part-time league where favours will be few and far between.

But for one of their playing staff, goalkeeper Paul Bradshaw, County's traumatic slide into the Vauxhall Conference has left him bitter and anxious to get away before what is left of his career slides into non-League obscurity along with the Welsh side.

When the season began, Paul moved from Bristol Rovers to Somerton Park expecting the club to push for honours but, within weeks, he found them plummeting towards the Football League trapdoor like an out of control rollercoaster.

And after three managers, three chairmen, financial chaos, a catalogue of injuries and the sale of some of their best players, Newport finally gave up the fight to hang on to League status.

For 32-year-old Paul, the season has left him on the edge of the unknown and determined to get back into League football.

"We started the season off well with a blend of experienced players and youngsters," he explains. "But then we lost our skipper Phil Brignull through a serious knee injury and our plight just got worse and worse."

John Lewis, who was manager then, did well to get some experienced players to the club and the future didn't look half as bad as it turned out.

"By the time Brian Eastick took over as boss we were near the bottom but above Tranmere and Rochdale. Then Tranmere went out and spent £60,000 on new players but, because of our financial situation, we knew we couldn't match that."

"When we started to sell our better players it was like admitting defeat and we were left to field YTS lads. You can't expect to survive by pitching youngsters into a League which is very physical and hard to play in."

Now Paul, who spent part of the season out with a serious thigh injury, is totally disillusioned about life at a club which hasn't even told him whether he is part of their plans for next season.

"I want to get away," he says emphatically. "I don't want to play in the Vauxhall Conference."

I'm fed up with the way the club has been run. I went from week to week not even knowing whether I would get any wages. It was that bad.

"I'm 32 and I still believe I can do a good job for a League club. I know I've got the ability and, even at my age, the challenge to prove myself is still there."

"I don't think there is any real chance of getting an improved contract at Newport and, in any case, I haven't even had a phone call from anyone at the club to tell me what is going on. People say we've been bought by a businessman but all I know is what I read in the papers."

'I don't want to play in the Conference'

– PAUL BRADSHAW

"Newport's drop couldn't have come at a worse time for me. I can't even tell my family what is going on or plan holidays at the moment. At this stage of my career I need security."

And Paul's fate has been made even worse by the fact that one of his former clubs – Wolves – have at the same time got out of the Fourth Division as Champions and are due to play at Wembley against Burnley in the Sherpa Van Trophy.

"I still live in Wolverhampton," says Paul. "And I see the lads most weekends. It was very demoralising to see them buzzing every week while I would have just got back from a 6-0 thrashing. But they are still mates and I wish them every success, even though it's like rubbing salt in the wounds."

Former Wolves 'keeper Paul Bradshaw – plunged into a personal crisis by Newport's nightmare of a season.

I REALLY felt for Crystal Palace on the last Saturday of the League season. They must have thought they had secured a spot in the play-offs for a place in the First Division when they beat Manchester City 2-0.

What they cannot have expected was Blackburn winning away at Champions Millwall, thus condemning Palace to another season in Division Two.

It must have been heart-breaking for manager Steve Coppell and his team.

P. Melloy, Bletchley, Bucks.

'GAZZA' must go to Germany! If England are to stand any chance of success in the European Championship Finals this summer then manager Bobby Robson must not overlook the many talents of Newcastle star Paul Gascoigne.

Although 'Gazza' has appeared in the Under-21 side, he has yet to make a full international appearance for England. Tony Adams and Gary Pallister have made the step up, so why hasn't Paul been given his chance?

England's performances – especially in midfield – against Hungary and Israel have not been up to scratch and 'Gazza' is the man to get England firing again. With a midfield of Steve McMahon, Bryan Robson, Paul Gascoigne and Trevor Steven, can you see anyone beating England?

Dave Menzies, Southport, Merseyside.

● 'GAZZA' may get his chance in the friendly international with Switzerland.

CAN Charlie Nicholas have been serious when he described Premier Division Champions Celtic as 'very vulnerable in defence' in a recent issue of MATCH?

These comments, while true of Celtic teams of the past, are patently untrue of the current team. Only 23 goals have been scored against the Parkhead outfit this season and that's the best record in the Premier Division.

Even Charlie's Aberdeen team have failed to score against Celtic in the past three meetings so where Charlie gets the idea from that the Glasgow giants 'leave themselves open at the back' I don't know.

Charlie claims to love Celtic but I'm not so sure. I suspect he knows he was wrong to quit the team for Arsenal in the first place and now knows that he wouldn't be considered for a place in the present team.

H. A. McNeill, Isle of Colonsay, Argyll.

● CHARLIE'S admiration for Celtic's achievements this season was clear. And I didn't detect a trace of bitterness towards his former club.

Graham Roberts – Rangers' most consistent player this season but now set to leave after a bust-up with the boss.

GOLDEN GOOF

MICKY ADAMS... was carried off in first half

MICKY Adams may have been carried off in the match against Birmingham, but why did 'The Sun' use a picture of Leeds team-mate Glyn Snodin?

THE FURY THAT THREATENS IBROX

RANGERS boss Graeme Souness must learn to control his temper otherwise he may undo all the good work he's done at Ibrox.

The Rangers player-manager has shown how hot-headed he can be on the field with a catalogue of sendings-off and bookings.

And his fiery temperament has spread to the dressing room. Iain Durrant almost left the club after a bust-up with Souness. Now a flare-up with Graham Roberts looks like ending with Roberts packing his bags and returning to England.

The great pity is that Roberts was Rangers' most consistent player last season and is clearly loved by the fans.

And unless Souness learns to be more level-headed, then he could destroy a team capable of dominating Scottish soccer for years to come.

Neil Rudd, Belfast, Northern Ireland.

● TEA-HURLING scenes in the Rangers dressing room are legendary. And senior professionals won't stand for being treated like that.

MATCH reveals the goalkeeper with the safest pair of hands in Division Four during the 1987-88 season.

KING KENNY!

Kenny Allen – safest hands in Division Four.

ALLEN WINS HIS

BATTLE OF NERVES

TORQUAY goalkeeper Kenny Allen has played a major part in the Devon club's astonishing turnaround of fortunes in the last 12 months.

Just one year ago, the 36-year-old was living on frayed nerves as his team scrambled to safety in the dying seconds of the season and earned a 2-2 draw that kept them in the Football League.

He has been living on his nerves for most of this season as well, but this time at the opposite end of the table as the 'Gulls' chased a top three spot that would have ensured them automatic promotion out of the Fourth Division.

That was not to be, however, as Cyril Knowles' outfit were denied on the last Saturday of the season and had to be content with a play-off spot instead.

To have managed even that, however, was due in no small measure to the efforts of Kenny, who emerged as Division Four's 'Top Stopper' by conceding a miserly 41 goals as he clocked in for duty in all 46 of the club's League games during the season.

Mark Kendall – joint record for the most clean sheets.

But the vastly experienced number one, who has also seen League action at Hartlepool, Bournemouth and Swindon, was chased all the way by a trio of goalkeepers who all ended the season chasing top six places with their respective sides.

Second spot was shared by Bolton's Welsh international David Felgate and Peterborough's Joe Neenan, who both played 46 games and conceded just one more goal than their South Coast rival, although Joe did have six games on loan at Scarborough.

But what makes the 'Posh' goalkeeper's feat astonishing is the fact that last season, when he was with Burnley, he finished in 17th – and last place – after conceding 68 goals in 45 matches.

A marked improvement this time around also saw him return 22 clean-sheets, a figure only equalled by Wolves' fourth placed 'keeper Mark Kendall, whose experience played a vital part in their march to the title.

Then there was a big gap in our table, with Scunthorpe's Ron Green claiming fifth place – one place worse than his team managed in the League, and a commendable sixth for Crewe's Dean Greygoose.

RACING FOR

PARIS ARE SET TO SWOOP

RACING PARIS look set to pull off a major coup by signing Belgian World Cup 'keeper Jean-Marie Pfaff, who is destined to move on after six years with Bayern Munich.

The long-serving 'keeper - a veteran of more than 160 games for Bayern - is also interesting Monaco, who could be tempted to let unsettled English striker Mark Hateley return to Britain.

Monaco coach Arsene Wenger wants to strengthen his defence and has already declared his admiration for the talents of the Belgian 'keeper.

Hateley is reported to have had talks with Spurs and Glasgow Rangers but has so far denied any move is on the cards.

And Mechelen - winners of the European Cup Winners' Cup - have completed the signing of Ajax striker John Bosman.

Bosman agreed to the deal with the Belgians after Mechelen ran out 1-0 winners over Ajax in the Final in Strasbourg.

MONACO had Glenn Hoddle to thank for carving out the opening for the goal which beat Nice 1-0 and virtually guaranteed the South Coast side the French title.

The England midfielder wriggled clear of his marker to set up the chance and was later unlucky not to score himself when he was brought down after rounding the goalkeeper. No penalty was awarded.

With second-placed Bordeaux beating Racing Paris 1-0, it left Monaco needing just one point from three games to make sure of the Championship.

SPOT-ON, LINEKER!

BARCELONA'S bid to end their poor season on a high note was boosted with a 4-2 win over Real Zaragoza ... with incoming coach Johan Cruyff watching from the stands.

England striker Gary Lineker scored twice from the penalty spot to add to goals from Ramon Caldera and Rubensosa.

Meanwhile Spanish Champions Real Madrid and runners-up Real Sociedad drew 2-2.

Spanish international Emilio Butragueno scored twice for Madrid after Paco Loren had put the home team in front after 16 minutes.

Real Sociedad's substitute Jose Iturrino grabbed a late equaliser for John Toshack's team in a match spoiled as a spectacle for the 20,000 fans when Madrid's Spanish international midfielder Michel was struck on the head by an object thrown from the crowd.

BRUGES clinched the Belgian title with a 3-0 win over Winterslag but it was European Cup Winners' Cup heroes Mechelen who hit the headlines with a crushing 3-0 victory over Anderlecht.

Goals from De Gryse, Gasperic and Brylle helped Bruges take the title while Mechelen capped a glorious week with a stunning win - their goals coming from Emmers, Koeman and Ohana to complete the greatest week in the club's history.

WREXHAM may have missed out on promotion this season but for striker Kevin Russell it's still been a memorable year.

The 21-year-old former Portsmouth reserve completed his first full season in the Football League by finishing as Wrexham's highest goalscorer - and capped that by being voted the supporters' 'Player of the Season'.

"It has certainly been an exciting year for me," Kevin declares. "I never thought my first season would go so well but I'm delighted with the way it's turned out."

Although he missed seven matches in succession through a knee injury, Kevin still managed to hit 25 goals this season.

And with the emergence of a dynamic partnership with Ollie Kearns, the Wrexham fans will no doubt look to the two to provide the goals for a promotion push next season. "Ollie and myself formed a brilliant partnership almost straight away," Kevin recalls. "In the first four matches we played together I managed to score five goals. Ollie then struck two in a game at Hereford. We haven't looked back since."

One thing Kevin found difficult in the Fourth Division was the higher than expected standard of play.

"Despite what people might say, the Fourth Division is a really hard division to play in," he says. "I played a few matches for Portsmouth in the Second Division and I just couldn't believe how fast the action was in Division Four. It all seemed to be at 100mph."

NEXT WEEK: Don't miss the fans' choice in Division Three.

PORTO clinched the Portuguese title when they cruised to a 5-0 win over Rio Ave, while European Cup finalists Benfica prepared for their meeting with Dutch Champions PSV Eindhoven by losing 2-1 to Belenenses.

MILAN MAKE CERTAIN

RUUD GULLIT acclaimed it the "greatest day of my football career" as AC Milan made certain of their eleventh Italian League title when they travelled to Como and collected the point they needed with a 1-1 draw.

Meanwhile Napoli's last hopes of hanging on to the title they won last year were dashed when they were defeated 2-1 at home by Sampdoria. European 'Footballer of the Year' Gullit was the hero for Milan and set up the opening goal for striker Antonio Virdis in the second minute. For Virdis it was his third taste of title champagne - having collected a winners' medal with Juventus in 1978 and 1982.

Said Gullit: "We made certain in style. Maybe not with a brilliant performance but by doing just what was needed of us."

"Here in Italy football is another world and I love it. It is a beautiful game and much more important to win here than in Holland, where the atmosphere is much colder."

Mark Hateley - missing the big crowds.

INTERVIEW

MARK HATELEY dropped a soccer bombshell when he announced he was quitting the sun and swank of fashionable Monaco and here, in an exclusive interview with ADRIAN CURTIS, he talks frankly about his French experience... and his England future.

MATCH: When did you actually realise that it was time to quit French football?
MARK: I think the crunch came just after Christmas when we were playing in front of just three to five thousand spectators at home even though we were top of the table. In the summer we were attracting gates of up to 20,000 but, when you reach October and November, everybody goes home and we were left playing in front of very moderate crowds to say the least. It was a great contrast after being used to 75,000 people every week in Italy and I really miss that.

MATCH: Was it affecting your game?

MARK: I think it would be unfair to say that playing in front of small crowds was affecting me but something was missing. I like to play in front of people who have enthusiasm for the game and the residents of Monaco are very different to anywhere else really. They are very wealthy people and sport is perhaps not highest on their list of interests.

'I put my family before anything and that includes the European Cup and money. I would rather be happy and broke.'

MATCH: Your name has already been linked with Glasgow Rangers and Spurs. Are you prepared to say if you would come back to a British club at this stage?

MARK: I think that would be very unfair to the clubs who are talking to me at the moment. All I can say is that I've had talks with a number of top British clubs. First of all I am trying to sort out the situation with Monaco and then get the European Championship won with England. After that I'm going to take two weeks off and sort out my future. I've already had two Italian clubs interested in signing me but I'm keeping my options open.

MONACO LOSES ITS MAGIC

THE Monaco magic finally ran out for Mark Hateley as low crowds and his unsettled family fuelled his desire to quit the French playboy paradise.

In an exclusive interview with MATCH, the 26-year-old tough-guy striker reveals the truth behind his shock decision to quit the French Champions and turn his back on a financial fortune and the chance of European Cup glory.

And with the European Championship Finals less than a fortnight away, the former AC Milan player also reveals how he is still haunted by his failure to make a mark in the 1986 World Cup Finals in Mexico.

Says Mark: "Apart from my family being unsettled, I miss playing in front of big crowds and that was a big factor in my decision to leave Monaco at the end of the season."

"I'm used to playing in a big-match atmosphere and at Monaco I found I was playing in front of gates of just 5,000 when we played at home."

"Anyway, I put my family before anything and that includes the European Cup and money. I would rather be happy and broke."

And the player whose decision to leave the rich lifestyle behind has already sparked off a massive hunt for his signature among Britain's top clubs admits he is still haunted by his World Cup disappointment.

Says Mark: "I thought I was unlucky to be left out of the World Cup side and was very disappointed. I had scored four goals in five games leading up to the Finals and got most of the goals which took us there."

"I didn't score in the first two games in the Finals but then nobody did and I felt a bit hard done by."

"Now I'm as keen as possible to get back for the European Championship but I know that it is a knock-out competition and people have to play well in every game or else others will get a chance to show what they can do."

"Now I think there is room for me to start a game and hopefully I'll get a bash in Germany."

Clive Allen - suited to the French style.

MATCH: How have the club reacted to your decision to call it a day in France?

MATCH: Both the president and manager have been very understanding and respect my reasons for wanting to leave. They are trying to come to some arrangement which will suit both me and the interests of the club. They are obviously very sorry to see me go, especially after the successful season we've had because we've played some great football and done well with a new team, but they are being very helpful at the moment. I don't think they could be fairer at this stage.

'I felt a bit hard done by in the last World Cup Finals.'

MATCH: Could they make you stay?

MARK: Oh yes, quite easily. I've still got two years left on my current contract and if the club and I can't come to some sort of satisfactory arrangement and they tell me I've got to see my contract out then I'll have to stay put. The European Cup will be a big factor in their decision whether to let me go or not. I've thought long and hard about turning my back on the chance to play for Monaco in Europe and I expect it will be high in their thoughts.

MATCH: Has it surprised you how well Monaco have done this year?

MARK: I think it has surprised everyone at the club. They finished around 8th or 9th last year and then bought five new players and changed the whole team around. They were looking at a two-year rebuilding programme but we managed to wrap the Championship up in the first season.

MATCH: Do you think Clive Allen will be a success with Bordeaux?

MARK: Clive's style of play will be very suited to French football. Bordeaux are a very good club and they pushed us for the title this season. Most French clubs play with small, sharp strikers and play in a very goal-minded way. Clive has the knack of scoring and is very good in the box. I think he'll do very well as the game is very open and flows to and fro very quickly.

MATCH: Do you think playing in France has been harmful to your England career?

MARK: I don't think so. Bobby Robson knows what I can do and that is good enough for me. I've been out of the country for four years and still been a regular in the England side. Although I haven't been a first choice recently, I can hopefully get back in time for the European Championship. I'm only 26 and I would hardly describe myself as an old man.

MATCH: How well do you think England will do in Germany next month?

MARK: I think this Championship is wide open and all the teams taking part are on a similar level. Being English, though, I have to say we've got a good chance and I believe we'll be playing in the Final, although the West Germans will be favourites and I would never write off the Russians. It is all about producing the right form over a fortnight and, with the squad we've got together, I think we can do that. We are strong in all departments and that is what you need to win these competitions. We lacked that strength before the Mexico World Cup.
